Sarah's Stitches

by Sarah W

As the end of the summer draws near we can all start thinking about working on some thicker items for the upcoming months, or finishing up some of those WIPs that you just can't do during the summer months. I am still working on the Napkin pattern, unfortunately I have been busy with a quick turn around wedding outfit for a mother of the bride so all my time has had to go into that, but by the time we meet I should have a rough idea of yardages and sizing done if not the whole pattern.

Thank you to all that attended the meeting last month, even though the early conversation may not have been the most cheerful of possible topics I hope all found the information helpful. I believe the links and other resources discussed have been posted on the website for all to access.

This week we had 8 people come to happy hour on Friday, please don't forget the zoom session is open every evening and all day weekends if you need help, company or just someone to say hi to. Hope to see more of you at the meeting this month on the 18th September.

Keep stitching
