JOANS JOTTINGS

I was thinking about the different types of knitters/crocheters that I see in our guild. We are all different and we are all RIGHT!

1. The Perfectionist: The perfectionist is meticulous and detail-oriented, striving for flawless stitches and impeccable finishing. They approach knitting/crocheting as a pursuit of mastery, willing to unravel work to correct even minor mistakes.
2. The Experimental: The experimental thrives on creativity and spontaneity. They love trying new techniques, exploring unconventional yarns, and mixing patterns in unexpected ways. Each project is an opportunity for innovation and personal expression.
3. The Therapeutic: The therapeutic finds solace in the rhythmic motion of knitting/crocheting needles. They knit/crochet to unwind, soothe anxiety, or enjoy quiet contemplation. Theirs's is a meditative practice, offering a sense of accomplishment and inner peace with each completed row.

Which kind are you?

At our June program "Assistance with Fusion Knitting" we learned about fusion knitting! Joan W demo'd and explained how to do this interesting/fun technique. We welcomed having the laptop projection for the large display on the screen! Thank you, Joan!
